Civil Action No. 3:25-CV-0916-X

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

Before the Court is Plaintiff Thomas Richards’s motion asking the Court to reconsider its order denying Richards’s request for a temporary restraining order (Doc. 77). Motions for reconsideration serve “to correct manifest errors of law or fact or to present newly discovered evidence.”¹ They are not a vehicle for relitigating issues already resolved or for raising arguments that could have been presented earlier.²

Richards presents no new facts that were unavailable to him at the time of his repeated requests for temporary restraining orders. And “[i]t is well settled that motions for reconsideration should not be used . . . to re-urge matters that have already been advanced by a party.”³ His main argument hinges on the idea that the Court ceases work at 5:00 PM. Richards filed his second reply in support of his request for a temporary restraining order at 8:45 PM on August 5, 2025, and the Court's order, dated August 5, 2025, was docketed around noon on August 6, 2025. Richards insists this means the Court did not properly consider his second reply but had its outcome predetermined.

While the Court appreciates Richards's vision of confining the workday to an agreeable nine-to-five schedule, that is not the reality for the hard workers of the Northern District of Texas. Just as Richards himself filed his reply in the evening, so the Court was hard at work in the waning hours of the day⁴—hence the order's next-day docket entry. And regardless, Richards is not entitled to multiple reply briefs.⁵

Therefore, the Court DENIES Richards's motion for reconsideration.

IT IS SO ORDERED this 13th day of August, 2025.
